

Be Ready When Disaster Hits

Here are the proper precautions to take and things to consider in preparation for a natural disaster.

- The first thing you can do is to be aware of which type of disasters actually occur where you live. Find out here: <https://www.ready.gov/be-informed>

Prepare a family plan for when disaster hits. Consider:

- How you will receive the notification of the disaster. Do you subscribe to emergency alerts & warnings via mobile device, or will you follow local news stations?
- What will be your plan for shelter?
- How will you choose to evacuate (if necessary or advised)?
- How will you maintain communication with your family, loved ones or those you live with?

What are your household needs that you must prepare? Consider:

- Different ages of members of your household and family
- Responsibilities you might have for assisting others inside or outside your household
- Locations you frequent
- Dietary needs
- Medical needs, which includes prescribed drugs and equipment
- Disabilities & any access difficulty
- Functional needs, including devices & equipment

- Languages spoken among those in your household
- Cultural & religions preferences and obligations among those in your household
- Pets or service animals
- Household needs for school-aged children

Complete an Emergency Plan for your family/house-hold

- Use this helpful link to drafting a proper emergency plan: https://www.fema.gov/media-library-data/1440449346150-1ff18127345615d8b7e1effb4752b668/Family_Comm_Plan_508_20150820.pdf

Practice your plan!

- An important key to proper preparedness is practice. Familiarize your family or household with the drafted Emergency Plan you've drafted.

Make and Share Free Checklists

checkli.com