

TOP 10 Amazing Remote Team-Building Activities

Remote Team Building Activities for Your Next Meeting

Spill the Bucket

- ☐ All you need to do is ask 'What's on your bucket list? Have people share 3-5 things that are on their bucket lists and why they want to do them.

Grab a cuppa (On us)

- ☐ Treat remote employees to a nice cup of coffee (or tea). Send them a gift card for a local coffee shop and have them share a photo of themselves at the coffee shop.

Yearly retreats & meetups

- ☐ Face to face interactions continue to be king. While it can be more expensive, yearly meetups can help nurture a strong sense of belonging.

Virtual Coffee Café

- ☐ Encourage team members to start their workday by jumping on a call (extra points for video calls) with a fellow coworker while they enjoy their cup of joe.

Remote Movie Club

- ☐ Start a video call and stream a movie. Keep the chat open so that team members can comment about the movie, specific scenes, or characters.

Guess who? (Baby Edition)

- ☐ Everyone loves baby pictures. Everyone loves trying to guess who's who on baby pictures. Ask your team to share a photo Of when they were a baby with you.

Group Trivia

- ☐ You can do a general trivia, a corporate trivia, or stick to industry-related topics. It's best if you divide your team into small groups.

Gift exchange

- ☐ Set a budget and use a gift exchange randomizer to decide. If you have an international team, encourage them to send a gift specific to their country.

Personality Quiz

- ☐ Personality tests are a great way to learn about yourself and others. Simply send each team member a link with access to personality tests.

Fun & Random thoughts channel

- ☐ Most distributed teams use platforms like Slack and Skype. A great way to encourage communication is to have a dedicated channel for random, fun thoughts. (i.e. motivational quotes, memes, fun photos)
