Problem Solving In the Workplace

Being a Problem Solver in the workplace is crucial to finding success in business. Managers and employees will notice your penchant for solving tough problems! Visit Us at our website for more info and job postings daily!

- [ ] Problems at work come in all shapes and sizes. They can big tasks requiring a team effort, or simple day-to-day administrative tasks.
- [ ] Focus on solving the urgent problems at work, take a solutions-based approach towards problems rather than focusing on all of the problems your organization is facing.

Coming up with solutions at work can help you build a reputation as problem solver.

- [ ] They Avoid Being Perfectionists
  - [ ] Problem-solvers don't focus On being perfect, they focus on finding the right solutions to move forward with.
- [ ] They are willing to move out of their comfort zone.
  - [ ] Effective employees are always looking to adapt and learn to improve at their role. They embrace the challenge of problem solving.
- [ ] They can differentiate between when a simple or complex solution is needed.
  - [ ] They know when to save time by using a simple solution. and when to work hard to solve complex issues.
- [ ] They are always sure to fully understand the problem before trying to solve it.
  - [ ] The best employees make sure they fully understand exactly what the problem is that they are currently working on.
- [ ] They seek to prevent problems rather than intervene on them.
  - [ ] Good problem-solvers tend to face less conflict and drama due to careful planning. They know when to ask for advice or seek support.

- [ ] They keep their options open when it comes to finding solutions.
- [ ] Effective employees will always have a backup plan. They are always looking for new ways of solving a problem.

Make and Share Free Checklists
checkli.com