Ecommerce Development Checklist

Site Architecture - Before you begin any eCommerce development work, you must first lay out the site architecture, as well as the HTML and SEO elements that will support it.

Ensure that the design, aesthetics, user interface (UI), and experience are all well-designed and cater to all customer categories.
Using aspects such as a security badge, shipping and returns policies, multiple and secure payment choices, social proof, Google Reviews, and so on, you may build confidence.
Every page should have your brand logo and a link back to your main page.
Use the same corporate colours and fonts throughout the website.
Make this a clear statement of who you are and what you do, and this value proposition should pervade your entire website.
